[illegible] at Reeves, Winnebago [illegible] Family.

[illegible] reaches us by telegraph of the [illegible] of the family of Rev. [illegible], of Reeves, consisting of his [illegible] children. We learn that the [illegible] occasioned by the sudden rise of [illegible] Kishwaukee) which swept away [illegible] with all its inmates on Thursday [illegible]. The Kishwaukee is a stream which is [illegible] deep in ordinary times.

[illegible] Orleans in a State of Siege.

[illegible] remains in the hands of [illegible] Committee. At latest dates the ex[illegible] was intense, owing to an attempt on the part of the Mayor to reduce the "[illegible]" by force of arms. Our dispatches [illegible] the power in altogether in the [illegible] of the Vigilance party. [illegible] force is a mere ragged regiment [illegible] issued an order for the arrest of [illegible], the editor of the True Delta. [illegible] parties were forming barricades in the [illegible].

How to Reduce the Taxes.

[illegible] LABOR.—The Comptroller es[illegible] that it will require, in addition to the [illegible] poll tax, the sum of $39,000 to be expen[illegible] labor for the repair of the streets, viz: [illegible] Division, $15,000; West Division, [illegible]; North Division, $9,000. This is [illegible] pretty large sum of money, much more [illegible] expended than raised. Labor is [illegible] this year than last. The regular [illegible] paid by the city for two horse teams last [illegible] was $3.00 per day, and for manual labor, [illegible]. This year it is $2.25 for teams, and 75 [illegible] a man, per day. The expenditures for [illegible] repairs last season amounted to $50,133, of which $13,299 was obtained by poll tax, leaving $36,834 to be raised by general taxation. Suppose the poll tax will provide $14,[illegible] this year, added to the Comptroller's estimate for money by taxation, it makes $52,000, being $2,000 more than last year when labor was twenty-five per cent higher than this year. The same quantity of work can be accomplished this season for $38,000 that cost $50,133 last season, and that amount should suffice. Hence, $24,000 raised by general taxation instead of $39,000 as proposed by the Comptroller, will answer all necessary purposes, thereby saving $15,000 in one lump, or nearly one half mill on the general levy. We invite the careful attention of the Mayor and Aldermen to these figures. We think they will agree that a large reduction can be made on the official estimate. Street Commissioners, we presume, will grumble and object, but what of that? Do they pay the taxes of Chicago? Let the Council do its duty to the people regardless of their clamor.

[illegible] NEW LAMPS AND REPAIRS, $8,500. This sum strikes us as large. Perhaps it is all right; but we would not feel surprised if the Mayor and Council could pare off [illegible] lamp post repairs. All things can be done more cheaply this, than last year—bear in mind. We believe the Council [illegible] in making the appropriation [illegible] the objects named by the Comptroller.

[illegible] FOR SCHOOLS, $70,000.—We tread on [illegible] ground, when we touch this subject, [illegible] we yield to no man in the sincerity of our [illegible] for public schools. Hence we discuss the [illegible] of curtailment of the above item, as an [illegible] friend of the cause of popular education. The original estimate of the Board of Education furnished to the Comptroller called for $93,250. It consisted of the following:

The new brick school houses	$50,000
[illegible]	7,500
[illegible] for the three houses	7,000
[illegible] for the same	8,000
[illegible] of Education rooms, fuel, &c.	3,500
For leasing and repairing school houses	10,000
[illegible] due on school lots purchased	4,250
[illegible] school fund in paying teacher's salaries	10,000

It will be seen that the new buildings and [illegible] constitute $65,500 of their whole estimate. Mr. WARD struck out one of the school [illegible], and the Board then raised the cost of [illegible] other one to $30,000, but we are informed [illegible] a prominent city official that it will cost not [illegible] than $40,000 before it is completed. But [illegible] that pass. It is proposed to erect it in the [illegible] Division, on the corner of Orchard and [illegible] streets, which is about midway between [illegible] Cemetery and the North Branch, in what is [illegible] as the Bavarian settlement. We have [illegible] where the $2,500 frame school house [illegible] proposed to be built.

[illegible] and careful investigation of the [illegible] brings us to the conclusion, that the [illegible] of the large and costly brick school [illegible] had better be put off until next year. The people are not in a condition to stand the [illegible] necessary to build and furnish it—which [illegible] cost, at the estimate of the Board, [illegible] $40,000. The Staats Zeitung, in view of the hard times, the prostration of [illegible] and the great difficulty the people will experience next winter, in paying their taxes, recommends the postponement of the erection of this school house until next [illegible]. The leading Germans of the neighborhood immediately interested—and the people [illegible] are nearly all Germans, declare their willingness to have it put over a year, on condition that temporary accommodations be provided for next winter's school. These people [illegible] sensible. They take things as they [illegible] them, and not only practice economy [illegible] frugality in their domestic rela[illegible] but favor the policy of extending [illegible], into public affairs. Where there [illegible] a will there is a way. The Board of Education can provide temporary accommodations [illegible] a school in that district, if they will set about it, and also in two or three other neighborhoods destitute of school houses. The Mayor, in his inaugural, advised the erection of a few commodious, cheap, frame school houses for the outskirts, and thinly settled portions of the city. Let them answer for the present, rather than to pile assessments upon our already tax-ridden citizens, during the continuance at least of this season of financial distress. The appropriation for schools instead of [illegible] seventy thousand dollars need not [illegible] $25,000, for besides the large brick [illegible] house there are fuel, items, &c., that can [illegible]. The city owns a great pile of coal, [illegible] Bridewell. That $3,500 item for the Board of Education room rent, interest, &c., [illegible] higher than necessary, and it is questionable whether all of the $10,000 to aid the school fund in paying teacher's salaries, is absolutely needed. Teacher's salaries like the salaries of all other employees, should be reasonably reduced. We are confident that these views of the subject meet the concurrence of a vast majority of the tax payers of the city.

A compensation of $1,000 will buy as much this year as $1,200, or even more than last. Retaining salaries at old rates, is equivalent to raising them 20 to 25 per cent., because the same money represents so much more property. Is this the year to raise anybody's salary?

SALARIES OF CITY OFFICERS $71,000.

We come now to another sensitive subject, [illegible] the tax paying public must take [illegible]

Railroad Accident near [illegible] on the Michigan Southern Railroad.

Faulty Construction [illegible]

Report of the Committee Appointed to [illegible] the Same.

At a meeting of the passengers [illegible] and time of this accident, of which George M. Champman of the city of New York was [illegible] Chairman, and Orrin Miller of [illegible] Secretary, it was Resolved, That the Chairman and Secretary of this meeting together with [illegible] C. Church of Chicago, be appointed a committee of three to investigate the cause of said accident and [illegible] a true account thereof published [illegible] papers in the city of New York and Chicago, for the benefit of future travelers and the public.

In pursuance of the above resolution, we the undersigned have carefully examined into the cause of said accident, and find that the cars ran off the track on an embankment about [illegible] feet high while crossing a culvert of about ten feet span, where the track crosses upon two [illegible] pieces of timber, on which the ties or cross pieces of the track are laid loose and without any fastening [illegible] fastened to these ties with spikes, [illegible] the ties themselves were not fastened [illegible] of timber on which they rested, [illegible] out of place without [illegible] force.

Mrs. McLane, who saw the accident from her door a few rods distant, informed us that she saw the train crossing at a speed of about [illegible] miles per hour, that from some sudden jar of the engine the cars began to [illegible] when the hind car [illegible] and the ties not being fastened, dragged [illegible] whole superstructure. When three of the [illegible] off the track, one of which was [illegible] and the hind cars rolled [illegible] to the bottom of the embankment, and but for the presence of mind of one of the brakemen, who [illegible] pulled the alarm rope, and the almost [illegible] stopping of the engine by the engineer, the slaughter would have been terrible. As it was [illegible] persons had bones broken, and some twenty others were badly cut or bruised. On examining many of the cross ties we found them to be so rotten that they would not hold the spikes, and in some instances we could pick them to pieces with our fingers.

We were informed by the agents and workmen upon that Road that all their culverts are built in the same faulty manner, and that many other Western Roads have their culverts built in the same way! If this is so, we feel it our duty to denounce the engineers and those who build such Roads, and the agents who run them, as criminally culpable, for we consider it surprising that the cars do not run off the track every time they cross such culverts at high speed. Having thus discharged our duty to the public, we leave it for the agents of the Road and the authorities along the route to take such action as the case demands.

ANOTHER HOTEL DISEASE.—From undoubted sources we learn that a disease, similar in its effects to that of the National Hotel, in Washington, two years ago the coming winter, which created so much excitement, and was so terrible in its effects, has appeared in a first class Hotel at Chicago. The Hotel we speak of is a prominent one, and from some cause, as yet unknown, a large number of those who have stopped, or have staid at the Hotel, have been taken seriously ill there, or after their departure. Several of our citizens have suffered severely in this way, and one has died after a short illness. The disease resembles cholera, and leads into typhoid fever—both of the worst type. The sufferers in every instance are taken with vomiting, followed by diarrhoea, and rapid, general prostration. One of our citizens who had stopped a few days at the Hotel alluded to, lay at the point of death for several days, in consequence thereof, and was only saved by the closest care and watchfulness, and solicitude of his physician and friends. It is time this matter should be inquired into, and the Hotel deserted, until some inquiry be made and remedy found.—Buffalo Republic.

If this story were not a deliberate falsehood the Republic would be guilty of a crime in withholding from the public the name of the hotel where this plague is presumed to exist. Some few Buffalo people have occasion to visit Chicago at this time of year, in spite of their newspapers. The only objection to giving them the name of the hotel which is being swept by the pestilence, is found in the fact that no such house, and no such disease exists outside of the billious fancy of a Buffalo editor.

[illegible] Goldsmith, and say that they would doubtless have been better if the actors had taken more pains!—The plays for this evening are the "Knight of Arva" and "The Irish Emigrant." In the latter of these characters Mr. Drew has no superior.

BURGLAR.—THE BURGLARS CAUGHT IN THE ACT.—Last evening about half past 8 o'clock, Capt Bradley, assisted by officer Charles Noyes, arrested John Williams and James White, for the commission of a burglary, and locked them up at the marshall's office. It appears the officers had learned that these thieves had determined to rob the room of Mr. Bradford, on the fourth floor, over Hoffman and Gelpcke's bank, in Lasalle street. The officers "piped" them and last night about 8 o'clock they went to the room, unlocked it with a key fitted for the purpose, and stole a gold watch and chain, and a number of small articles. Just as they were leaving the building Capt Bradley arrested White, and Mr. Noyes arrested Williams. The latter undertook to thrash the officer, but was soon "persuaded" to go quietly to the Marshall's office. As soon as arrested they threw away part of their plunder but the officers picked it up. An hour after the arrest Mr Bradford went to the Marshal's office to report the burglary and was much astonished to find that his property and the burglars were already secured.

BOLD BURGLARY.—On Thursday night the residence of Mr. Flint, corner of Wabash avenue and Eldredge Court, was entered by burglars, one of them getting in by cutting out a window pane, and the other by picking the lock of the basement door. They then went into the pantry and after helping themselves to supper proceeded up stairs. They first went into the room where Mr. Flint's son was sleeping, and partially awakened him, when the lad asked "father, what are you doing there?" supposing it was his father. The burglar made no reply but went into Mr. Flint's room, and thence into another room where Mrs. Flint was sleeping with a sick child. They next attempted to force a door leading to a front room, and this fully awakened the lad, who apprised his father of what was going on. This alarmed the burglars, and they made off without taking anything with them. Their object was probably to obtain money, as they might have stolen gold watches if they had chosen.

A TRUE SON OF A PROPHET.—Many weatherwise persons, doubtless, have been much perplexed to account for the unusual prevalence of wet weather during the past month. We are happy to say that we have found out the solution. It is distinctly stated in an Almanac published eight months ago,—along the calendar for May and June,—that "rain—may—be—expected—about—this—time!" This astonishing statement and its fulfillment prove, conclusively, either that the Almanac maker is a prophet, or that he is a "medicine man," in collusion with the Clerk of the Weather. If this last should prove to be the case, the police should attend to the matter.

ROBBERY.—A colored man named Harry Williams was arrested for entering the "crib" kept by James and Lucinda Hall, and stealing a pocket book and papers of little value. There was found on him a pawn ticket for a coat, vest and pants, which are supposed to be stolen property. They can be seen at the Armory. He was committed in default of $300 bail. Williams was released from the penitentiary about two months ago, after serving out a sentence for stealing a watch.

HOW TO MAKE A CAT TALK.—It is popularly supposed that, since the days of Æsop, and Balaam's Ass, animals have ceased to speak; but it can be easily proved that this is a vulgar error. Put a large tom-cat into a hot oven, and it will talk quite plainly. Its conversation will be limited, to be sure, to the subject most nearly related to its unpleasant position, but you can most distinctly hear it say "w-a-r-m! w-a-r-m!! w-a-r-m!!!" Try the experiment once.

Vigilance Committees.

A Vigilance Committee is, we flatter ourselves, a peculiarly American institution. In other countries they may, perhaps, spring into existence now and then, but they are either speedily crushed, or else [illegible] the result of a revolution which [illegible] seeks to cure. It [illegible] greater [illegible] public opinion [illegible] constant [illegible] controlling power, that such [illegible] the social system, can possibly [illegible]. An usurpation of the municipal [illegible] by private citizens, [illegible] be the signal for a bloody [illegible]

[illegible] had usurped [illegible] the power which is violently seized and arbitrarily exercised, as quickly relinquished when the apparent necessity, for its exercise, has passed away. The fact is that Americans, while warmly attached to the true spirit of law, are usually indifferent and careless about its forms. In the pursuit of a good object, they are more [illegible]

[illegible] plunderers, nor is it probable that they speedily will. Their spirit seems somewhat broken by their trials; or, rather, they have become used to being abused and despoiled—like eels to being skinned—and do not mind it so much as formerly. We, whose happiness it is to live in the Republican city of Chicago, can look upon the troubles of less fortunate communities with sublime indifference, or, at most, with a merely philosophical interest. Satisfied with our own condition, we can scarcely appreciate the difficulties which beset our neighbors. Judging dispassionately, however, and at a distance, we are of opinion that if the desperate expedient of a Vigilance Committee is ever adopted, it should be dispensed with as soon as possible. If, by a severe course of medicine, the sick patient is set upon his legs again, thenceforth throw physic to the dogs and let nature have her perfect work. And in almost every supposable case, we think that a "more excellent way" can easily be found for the redress of grievances than that of forcible interference. It cannot be too strongly urged that "an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure." The great curse of city governments everywhere, is the indifference of the better class of community. They quietly suffer the Old man of the Mountain to get across their shoulders, and it is no small matter to shake him off again. The only effectual method to secure a good and healthful government, is for every honest citizen, at every election, to come up to the polls and vote. Other methods may do as temporary shifts, but this only will produce a permanent and radical effect. We should much prefer, at any election, that an intelligent and thinking man should vote for our opponents, if he honestly believes them to be the best candidates, than that he should abstain from voting at all.

When, therefore, we express a mild approval of such a body as a Vigilance Committee, as a last resort, it is only in case they seek to remove a greater evil. Lord MACAULAY finds matter for gratulation in the fact that fifty thousand thieves exist in London; since it argues a high state of prosperity, that the city can support so great a number; and it is only in this light that we can look with complacency upon such excrescences on the body politic, as these self-constituted Committees! It is certainly a matter of pride, that our institutions are, as yet, so strong and healthy that they can easily recover from a shock which would annihilate those of many other countries. Our constitution may be compared to one of those immense bridges of England, which are the miracles of art, and which will still stand firm and secure, though a hundred of their arches were destroyed. Or it may be compared to the Leviathan, which, though riddled in a hundred places, would still proudly float; or, better still perhaps, "to one of those druid rocks, which are so accurately poised, that the finger of a child can make it tremble, but which the efforts of a thousand men could never overthrow."

War with England.

The long-breathed debate in the Senate on Saturday last—each aspirant for the Presidency striving to out-do his fellows in voting for blood, nothing but blood—seems to have tapered down to [illegible] and [illegible] each illustrious Senator, [illegible] over the Appropriation bill, and franks his war speech home to an amazed constituency, in the usual style. While this sudden excess of Americanism may be readily overlooked, it should be remembered that as it is one thing to get into a war with England and quite another to get out of it, so it is one thing to avoid a war [illegible] and to avoid it [illegible] setting the whole world laughing at us. The principle enunciated by the war Senators was that we should fight first, and enquire what we were fighting about, afterwards—say after the first [illegible] when the blood of both parties was flowing well, and nothing but more blood would satisfy either. This [illegible] was sufficiently ridiculous without the accompanying fuss and bluster about capturing a British cruiser and bringing her into an American port to sink or burn her. Granting that certain acts on the part of these cruisers have been unwarranted, what nonsense to make an overt declaration of war without waiting for explanation or reparation, which are always promised to be in readiness for the injured party. Even if the relative naval [illegible] of Great Britain and the United States were changed—if we had a score of guns to her [illegible], such a performance would be [illegible]

[illegible] having everything to lose and nothing [illegible] by an appeal to gunpowder—self respect and the respect of other people would dictate that no more gasconade be indulged in than is clearly warranted by the premises. If we would really like to fight England—about which there may be a respectable diversity of sentiment—let us arrange the preliminaries like gentlemen, not like a pair of Milesians at [illegible]

[illegible] such power to do each other harm, bound together by a common language, a common ancestry, and the inextricably interwoven relations of commerce, are to be precipitated into a war from which both must emerge maimed, impoverished and [illegible]? Does any one desire it? If so, that person is not to be gratified.

Revolution in New Orleans.

We need not wonder that necessity for a Vigilance Committee in New Orleans exists, or that the citizens outraged beyond further endurance, have determined to take the making and administering of the law into their own hands. New Orleans has latterly been the home of the pirates and fillibusters, who have sallied out thence to ravage the territory of their peaceful neighbors. It was there that the expedition of Lopez was conceived and got its material aid. There were and are still, the head quarters of Walker, and there plundering forays upon Mexico are now concocting. The merchants and business men have aided in all these. Their money has brought into their midst the gangs of confederate scoundrels and cut-throats who were expected to rob churches, sack cities and brain women and children. The loose and unemployed desperadoes from Halifax to San Francisco have gathered at their bidding, and are now only doing in a mild and domestic way what they were hired to execute elsewhere on a grander scale. They who enlisted to shoot, stab, maim, rob and outrage Cubans, Mexicans, or Nicaraguans, in defiance of law or right; why wonder that they are perfecting their practice by minor jobs of the same sort at home? Who will be astonished that the villains who returned with Walker and who have been trusted and fêted by the respectability and wealth of the city, finding themselves disbanded and without money or bread in the midst of a populous and licentious town, have set up the trade that they worked at in Central America, and are now killing and robbing whomsoever they may? These men are like tigers; they have a taste of blood, and will not now be restrained. The meshes of the law are nothing to them. They long ago quarrelled with honest industry and have wedded themselves to a life of lawlessness and strife. A thousand of them would provoke a Vigilance Committee in Boston itself. Why wonder that, in a city where they throng and to which they have been specially invited and honorably received, such a Committee is in full blast. New Orleans in the persons of her merchants, lawyers and politicians, invented the crimes that Lopez and Walker committed, and they have returned to plague the inventors. They have sown the seed; let them take care of the fruit. If it is bitter to the taste and poisonous to the body, let them remember how, where and by whose culture it grew. They might have learned a lesson of San Francisco. She traveled over the whole ground, from fillibustering abroad to an armed and bloody revolution at home. But experience is the only teacher to which they would listen. They are working out the result.

WASHINGTON, June 1, 1858.

I should be doing injustice to my own feelings if I allowed the late Spring to retire without an expression of indignation commensurate with the depth of the provocation which it has given me, in common with other Union and Constitution loving citizens. The late Spring was [illegible]—but what is the use? for you could not afford me the space to do justice to its character. Suffice it to say that from the day when I commenced on peas and string beans it has never ceased [illegible]—the only variation of the performance being from a drizzle to a [illegible], and from a pour to a drizzle. Now June has [illegible] in, the [illegible] of its predecessor.

My chapter on Illinois politics was incomplete yesterday, for I omitted to mention the remarkable cases of Conner, the [illegible] of the State Register, regular Democratic organ, and of Connelly, Register of the Land Office. Both these devoted Democrats were turned out of office because they would not swear by Lecompton and curse Douglas. Conner, it seems, was in a hopeful state of reformation, but his progress was too slow for Old Buck, who lost patience with the neophyte. Besides being editor of the Register, and dispenser general of Democracy in the State, Conner was Receiver of public monies, salary about $1000 per annum. He was badgered upon one side by the anti-Lecompton Democrats, who [illegible]

[illegible] President, who by the next mail which left Washington dispatched a vermillion edict running somewhat thus—

"Conner I love thee [illegible]
But never more be officer of mine."

This last proceeding of course renders eternal the feud between the Houses of Douglas and Buchanan, and will fill with grief the hearts of the true blue—I mean the true black—Democracy of Illinois; for now separation and consequent defeat are inevitable. Perhaps if the simple and honest-hearted Democracy knew all that was going on they would not enter so deeply into the exasperated feelings of the immediate parties; for all sorrow filling different hearts, to be lasting must be mutual. Who has not felt the truth as well as beauty of the adjuration of Dane to the infant Persons?

[illegible]

Now in regard to the personal movements of Mr. Douglas, I expect to know nothing, and say nothing; but it is a fact, which is undisputed here, that a number of the powerful Southern Senators went only last week to the President, and said to him, "Mr. Douglas must be re-admitted to the party. Lecompton is a dead issue, and on all others he is with us, and we need his aid. The axe of proscription must be stayed." To this the President responded. "No, you are too late. Lecompton, with its ramifications, is the great issue of my administration. He opposed the Democratic party at the hour of its fate. The Democracy conquered and he has fallen. I will stretch forth no hand to save him. Not a Douglas man shall remain in Illinois save as a monument of his apostacy and my clemency." This is the substance of what passed between the President and the mediators. The exact words are of no consequence. Now it will be said that Mr. Douglas did not send the committee. Perhaps he did not; and yet had they succeeded, their authority would have been admitted, and Mr. Douglas would have stood at this hour an accepted member, a leader and a prince, of the regular African Democracy. The die is cast; a great man has fallen in Israel, and the North is avenged upon her bitterest domestic foe—fit retribution for 1854 and 1856.

The war between the Presidential candidates and against British aggressions rages [illegible]

The war debate cooled down, when [illegible] with an awful presage of burning towns and runaway niggers, declared that such a war would be the greatest event of the last three centuries; still, he was for it! The old humbug.

JUNIUS.

(Correspondence of the New York Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, June 1, 1858.

I received information to-day that a disbursing officer in the Quarter-Master's Department in California, has proved to be a defaulter to the government to the amount of over twenty-three thousand dollars! This fact is known to the President and Secretary of War, and yet that defaulting officer has has neither been arraigned for the offence nor discharged from the service! It is true that the Secretary of War ordered him called to Washington, but there it was discovered that the blood of the "first families" flowed through his gallant veins, and, without subjecting him to the just punishment which awaits all Northern delinquents, he was permitted to return to California, under the promise that he would sell certain property in his possession, (purchased with the money of the government, my informant says) which would enable him to pay back to the government the money he had stolen. Singular to say, upon his arrival in California, the Department received a request, backed undoubtedly by a long list of "F. F. V.'s," that he be reinstated as an agent to disburse the money of the government!

Another "Fort Snelling" scheme has just been nipped in the bud. I learn, from reliable authority, that a certain distinguished "General" in the army, whose chivalrous exploits have not been very creditable to him of late, was empowered by the War Department, before leaving this city for Fort Leavenworth, to sell a large portion of that beautiful and valuable reservation. Information of the fact was obtained by certain gentlemen, who also learned that the "General" alias Land Agent, was authorized to sell a certain number of acres for the stipulated price of thirty dollars per acre! This additional intelligence surprised them and they determined to test the matter by an application to the aforesaid General, with an offer to increase the price; accordingly they called upon him at the Fort, and ascertained that he was authorized to sell the land for thirty dollars, but to a specified party in Cincinnati! The land was not open to the highest bidder! Upon learning this, the gentlemen applying informed the General that they considered this a very extraordinary way of disposing of the public domain; that they were willing to become purchasers of the property, if it was for sale, and should demand the right to do so, and gave notice to the General that they were ready to pay one hundred dollars per acre for all the land on the reservation that might be for sale for thirty dollars per acre to the Cincinnati parties. This prompt action, I believe, has caused a suspension of the sale for a while.

NEW ENGLAND IN THE SENATE.—The election of Mr. Anthony as U. S. Senator from Rhode Island makes New England, as of right she ought to be, a unit in the Senate. Henceforth in her voice there will be an accordant, and it will be truly representative of her will. This consummation has been reached with a steady progress during the last half dozen years. Sham Democracy had gained such a foothold in New England that it managed to hold many offices after the sentiment of the people was really against it. Thus, in the first session of the 33d Congress, in 1853-4, of the New England Senators six were Democrats, while their opponents were but four. This, however, was exceptional, owing to some vacancies unfilled and others filled by Executive appointment. At the opening of the next session, in December, 1854, the vacancies were all filled by election (except one in this State, which would not affect the result), and there stood five Democrats to seven Opposition. Of [illegible]

[illegible] expenditure of the late Republican [illegible] throughout the Republican members of the Wisconsin Legislature, [illegible] step by the Democrats, [illegible] office [illegible] amount [illegible] of $[illegible]. The bonds are distributed as follows:

The only Senators so bribed were six Republicans.

Six Republicans and [illegible] accepted no bribes, and voted against the bill.

The above exhibit is confined to the members and State officers. When we go beyond these, we find that the Democracy have fairly wallowed in corruption. To a [illegible] railroad, of which Democratic Ex-Gov. Barstow was President, $100,000 of La Crosse bonds was given, as its share of the plunder, which was divided out by Barstow and his followers, he receiving $50,000; his private secretary, $[illegible],000, the editor of the Madison Argus, [illegible] Barstow's administration [illegible]

[illegible] in regard to divorce [illegible] correspond [illegible] York on that [illegible]. This is certainly a singular way of stating the case, since we can hardly suppose that the apostles and prophets took much thought concerning the statute laws of New York, while setting forth their principles. In like manner we might say that the Scriptures "correspond very nearly," in some regards, to the statutes of Illinois.

The British Cruisers at Sagua la Grande.

From the New York Evening Post.

Of all the ridiculous stories which have reached us about the British outrages, that in reference to the search of fifteen American vessels at Sagua la Grande is the most ridiculous. General Cass admitted, and Mr. [illegible] admitted, that they had no testimony upon the subject, and only quoted a rumor to that effect. It now turns out that the only foundation of the case, even of visitation, at that port, was that of the British steamer Buzzard to the Clarendon, under command of Captain [illegible]. She was lying [illegible] miles from the port of Sagua; she had no flag flying, and the captain refused to show it or his papers. As soon as the officer of the Buzzard had conclusive evidence that the Clarendon was an American vessel, he retired. The reader will please take note of the fact that the Clarendon was on her voyage home, at Key West, and the captain made a statement of his "visitation" after his arrival at Charleston.

This is the only case of visitation at Sagua of which we have anything like a circumstantial report. If fifteen vessels had been boarded by British intruders, it is very strange that nothing official should have reached the country on the subject; but not half so strange as that any such thing should have occurred. It is just next to an impossibility that any British officers should have done at Sagua, or any other foreign port, what is attributed to them in the newspapers.

It is highly probable—and this we are inclined to think will turn out to be the fact—that English officers, as is their duty, visited our merchant vessels and asked their captains for information in regard to slavers [illegible] questions they [illegible] or not, as they pleased [illegible] in putting such questions [illegible] any [illegible] in answer [illegible] wretched [illegible]

[illegible]—and here is the [illegible]—our government [illegible] to regard the slave trade with [illegible] and, as a natural consequence [illegible] we entered into with England [illegible] have become [illegible] advisers of the President [illegible] traffic again, but most of [illegible] attempt it directly. They [illegible] make a lever of our national [illegible] aid indirectly to accomplish [illegible] pose. They are striving to work [illegible] of wounded nationality [illegible] consequence of her practice [illegible] vessels, as will induce our [illegible] the removal of the only [illegible] they were taught to believe [illegible] found to wit: Our squadron [illegible] assist in the suppression of [illegible] is natural to many, and [illegible] cans, to like the enemies of the [illegible] the first effect of a brush with [illegible] sequence of their insisting upon [illegible] search our ships for slavers [illegible] ate multitudes to a revival of [illegible] slaves. Nothing could be [illegible] national complacency, in [illegible] than to be persuaded that [illegible] a legitimate and honorable [illegible] what we wish to believe, [illegible] finding sufficient reasons for [illegible] not doubt that much of the [illegible] made about the outrages on [illegible] its origin in a desire to [illegible] people, by this indirect process [illegible] retirement from our anti-[illegible] tions. That accomplished [illegible] Supreme Court will be [illegible] business of its bad name, [illegible] longer piracy, but legitimate [illegible] the next thing we shall [illegible] squadron will have been ordered [illegible] Africa, not to catch slavers [illegible] our valuable and increasing [illegible] quarter."

QUITE A FLARE UP IN "HIGH LIFE."—A [illegible] lady now on a visit to St. Louis, [illegible] with her mother,) stopping [illegible] of our prominent citizens, [illegible] tion to attend a party lately [illegible] one of the elite of our city. [illegible] that she is engaged to a young [illegible] known hereabouts, but received [illegible] from him that he could not attend [illegible] eral indisposition. Whereupon [illegible] accepted the company of a gentleman [illegible] known and a millionaire, but instead of [illegible] the party, proceeded to one of our [illegible] tels, where the aristocratic couple [illegible] vate rooms, and until in the [illegible] daylight, were secluded from the [illegible] It appears that the young gentleman [illegible] the lady was engaged, recovered [illegible] justify a visit to the party, and [illegible] insatiable desire so common with lovers [illegible] in the immediate vicinity of the beloved [illegible] determined to attend the party. The [illegible] was by no means pleasant, the party [illegible] off, but go he must, and go he did. Upon his arrival he was astonished and annoyed not to find his affianced present. For her he had annihilated space and braved the elements, in quitting the sick-room he had jeopardized his life, and all for nothing. But he was immediately comforted by the assurance which his own imagination suggested that his beloved, true to the promptings of her own generous heart had declined to engage in the gay and festive scene, while her intended lay stretched upon the bed of sickness and of pain.

But murder will out. On the morrow the intended bride-groom was informed, by a perfectly responsible party, of the whereabouts of the young lady, and in a frame of mind not quite as calm as a summer's day, he proceeded at once to the residence of the aforesaid citizen, where the young lady was staying. "How did you enjoy the party?" quoth he; "I learn you had a very joyful time." "Oh, quite so," was the response; "I never enjoyed myself so much in my life. We had a noble time, and every body was sorry when it broke up." "Ah! so I am told. As for myself, I was there, and much chagrined at not seeing you. I was told you had not been there during the evening and had partially made up my mind to visit [illegible] Hotel, but fearing I [illegible] possibly interfere with your private arrangements, I concluded to await my time."

The young lady did not hear the completion of the sentence. She had fainted, and the young man thought proper to arouse the family. Before any explanation could be given, he found himself rather rudely introduced to the sidewalk. The sequel is yet to be learned.—St. Louis Democrat 2d.

G. SIMONDS,

Sole Proprietor and Manufacturer of Pure

OHIO CATAWBA BRANDY.

THIS BRANDY HAS BEEN MANUFACTURED for several years from the pure juice of the Catawba Grape, thus affording additional evidence of the progress of American enterprise and industry, and of our ability to produce articles at home equal to those made by any other nation.

The Ohio Catawba Brandy not only equals but excels the best imported Brandies, in purity and flavor. It is in fact the best Brandy known. This statement is fully corroborated by the certificates of our most distinguished analytical chemists.

The want of pure Brandy has long been felt in this country, and the introduction of an article of such quality as to supersede the sale and use of those vile compounds hitherto sold under the name of Brandy, can only be regarded a great public good. The Catawba Brandy possesses all the good qualities claimed for the best imported Brandy, and is of perfect purity and superior flavor, and a sovereign and sure remedy for Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Cramp, Colic, Languor, Low Spirits, General Debility, &c.

NO FAMILY SHOULD BE WITHOUT IT.

Special Notices.

THERE are hundreds of remedies sold at every Drug Store, purporting to cure all diseases, [illegible] each advertised as the very best ever known, till we have lost all faith in them all; but there is one exception. We speak of Dr. Sanford's Invigorator, which came to us recommended as a cure for Liver Complaints, and all diseases arising from a diseased liver. The testimonials of so many of our physicians in its favor, induced us to try it, and now conviction is certain that it is one of the greatest blessings ever given to dyspeptics, for it made a complete cure before the first bottle was taken, and now we can eat anything [illegible] without trouble, while before, nothing but the lightest food would digest, and often that gave pain. Now what we want to say to all our readers is, if Liver Complaint or Dyspepsia trouble you, do not fail to try the greatest remedy in the world. [illegible]

AMONG the many preparations now before the public as certain cures for the Fever and Ague, none have been received with such especial favor as that known as Dr. J. Hostetter's Celebrated [illegible] Bitters. This Bitter has been circulated, and its many virtues promulgated throughout the States, and every day the proprietors are greeted with the intelligence of some dreadful case vanquished by the use of their celebrated "Bitters." In our principal cities, there are but few families who neglect the "Bitters" in furnishing their medicine chests. As a [illegible] it is both mild and agreeable to the taste, and [illegible] in its action upon the system. For a certain cure for the Fever and Ague, Flatulency, Dyspepsia, and all other [illegible] diseases, it is safe and unequalled. For sale by Druggists and dealers generally, every where.

DAILY TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY MORNING..........JUNE 5.

Fashionable Intelligence.
FOR JUNE.

[Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.]
NEW YORK, June 1, 1858.

The flattering promises of a pleasant Spring and early Summer with which we were deluded in April, have been succeeded by long, cold, dismal rain-storms through the entire month of May, which have only just begun to yield to the sweet breath of June. A bright day is so great a treasure that it brings out all the city belles, and Broadway looks like a large flower-garden—all the fresh and [illegible] hues of spring-time prevailing in new attire. Lilac and the pale lavender is associated with a pure, bright green, and a forest brown which smells of pine woods and rustling leaves. White and the finer shades of drab are relieved with the gay scarlet or fiery groseille, while the serene jasper stands side by side with the tender hue of the violet and sapphire.

The two shades of one color, such as two greens and purples, two browns, etc., which have been so much admired, are giving place to brilliant variegated tints, or two solid colors.

Tartan plaid is in extraordinary demand and is used in silk and velvet upon almost everything. Wide plaid ribbons are much in vogue for robing dresses, especially the small India checked silks, which are used for spring walking, and for travelling dresses. Brightly variegated plaid also binds the summer cloaks and Raglans of fine grey cloth, or tweed and tartan plaid silk velvet, is well used as a splendid contrast to the tulle, crape and chips of the most elegant

BONNETS.

"I don't know how it is," said a lady recently arrived from Paris, "that you are so long in getting European styles here, or at least in having them [illegible] years, round hats turned up at the sides have been no novelty in England, France or Germany, and even the ordinary bonnet is larger and entirely different from the narrow-peaked affairs that fall back upon the shoulders of young ladies, and expose their complexions to assaults which a skin of leather could not withstand." The remark was called forth by the attention which a lady attracted in one of the public thoroughfares, by wearing a charming round hat of brown straw, turned up at the sides in the English fashion, and adorned with a long white plume, which drooped nearly to the shoulder. A single step has been taken which renders them admirable in the country, at watering places, and even for travelling purposes for which they are admirably adapted, doing away with the necessity for veils, parasols, and all the troublesome paraphernalia which is necessary as a protection against the sun and wind. An obstacle to their universal adoption doubtless exists in the fact that they are not universally becoming, but there is no reason why they should be considered outre when worn by any person, either for their beauty or convenience.

The greatest simplicity in decoration has succeeded the elaborate efforts of the past two seasons. Straws and leghorns are ornamented with a simple band of velvet, 1 and 1½ inches in width slightly gathered on the [illegible] and finished with a narrow blonde. [illegible] white straws are fashionable [illegible] in this manner; one I have seen had a white silk curtain with a band of scarlet velvet, which extended round the front. Inside a scarlet cordon with full plain white ruche, and wide white strings with scarlet edge, completed the decorations. A superb hat of French chip, was ornamented only with a narrow band of rich tartan plaid silk velvet round the front, and white transparent curtain, and a bunch of cock's feathers on one side. It was completed by a full blonde [illegible], and wide white strings bound with velvet.

Another style is called the "Pampadour," it has a fine straw front, with a saucy droop, and crown of tulle puffings, shaded by a careless fall of rich blonde, the only other ornament a wreath of wild roses, with buds, and green leaves, pendant.

A white crape hat was made to order for a distinguished lady, in the following manner:—The crape was drawn plain over a foundation covered with lace. A narrow band of scarlet velvet surrounded the edge, and another was placed at the distance of an inch and a half from it, which, however, terminated at each side of the curtain. A rich scarlet cord was twisted round the crown, finished by superb tassels in three tiers, which hung on one side. A full, plain, white ruche, and wide ribbon in blocks of scarlet and white, completed this [illegible]

A perfectly original and very distinguished design was found in the "Forest Belle," composed of two rows of black thread lace in points which surrounded the edge, the center and crown being covered by a large leaf of the water lily, in green crape, most exquisitely grained and shaded. Two small leaves, and a branch of poke berries were the only other ornament, with the exception of the ruche, bandeau and wide green strings striped with black on one side and red on the other.

Round veils are still in favor, the most elegant consisting of the finest guipure of which however only a very few are imported. Something new and very pretty for the light summer bonnets is found in small round falls of fine silk blonde, white, with a Mechlin edge, and worked with Mechlin sprigs.

BALL TOILETTES.

On the evening of May 24th (Queen Victoria's birthday) the British Consul gave a splendid party, or rather ball in honor of the occasion, which was attended by many distinguished Europeans, and nearly all the beauty and fashion now remaining in New York. The elegant mansion brilliantly lighted, was superbly decorated with flowers and lace draperies, in addition to the costly works of art, with which it is embellished. This charming fete was quite a godsend amid the dreary dullness of the present season, and gave the disconsolate belles a chance once more to array themselves in their sweetest smiles and prettiest dresses, a few of which I will venture to describe:

White robes were very prominent in silk, tulle and crape. Among the prettiest was one of white crape with three skirts ruched to the top with satin ribbon, and each covered with a very rich real blonde flounce. The sleeves were composed of one deep puff, ruched three times across the front. The body was very low with six deep points and ornamented with a blonde bertha to match the flounces. A very full bouquet of dark crimson velvet blossoms was placed at the bosom and extended to the point of the waist. The head-dress was composed of a cache peigne of velvet blossoms and long barbes of real blonde. A very rich necklace of pearls and diamonds, with bracelet, brooch, and earrings to match, completed a very distinguished costume.

Another lovely dress was of tulle composed of three skirts with ruches of the same looped up with branches of the creeping cereus. The body had little pointed victelles ruched and sprigged with leaves and blossoms to match the skirt. With this dress was worn a diamond and emerald bracelet exactly like one possessed by the Empress Eugenie.

A simple but charming dress, was of white grenadine, with moss flounces composed of small square blocks in rose and white, which had the softest and most luxuriant effect. Perhaps this was partially derived from the beauty of the young lady who wore it. She possessed one of those pale, oval faces, with dark lustrous eyes, and beautiful hair, which belong especially to the Anglo-American type of beauty. Her figure was slender, and graceful as a young willow, with sufficient fullness and fine roundness of outline, but accompanied by delicacy almost angelic.

A robe of lilac silk was much admired, with a double skirt, the upper one trimmed up the sides with ruches of lilac satin ribbon, edged with blonde placed across in the form of a pyramid. The body was high and trimmed across the front with ruches and blonde to match the skirt; it was round at the waist, and the belt fastened with a diamond clasp. The sleeves were the "Sultana" square, open to the shoulder, lined with white satin, and trimmed on the outside with a ruche of lilac ribbon, and on the inside with a ruche of white satin ribbon. Very full undersleeves were gathered into a puffing at the wrist through which a lilac ribbon was run, finished with a bow, and ends a small collar of honiton guipure. This completed the attire with the exception of a diamond brooch, and pins which were the only ornaments of the hair.

A very unique and costly robe was of silver tissue, with emerald ornaments. The head-dress consisted of a bright green wreath composed of the plumage of tropical birds.

A very stylish brunette, who was reported to be a Cuban heiress, attracted great attention in a dress of amber silk, with an over skirt of rich Spanish lace [illegible] with jets, and looped up with blossoms of the crimson cactus.

The display of crinoline was enormous. Over the skeleton hoops, flounced tartan skirts are worn under their dresses, and flounced crinolines under silks and moire antiques, richly embroidered cambric skirts coming next the dress. A profusion of jewelry also was worn of the most costly description, many of the toilettes being really dazzling with gems.

PERFUMERY, COSMETICS, YACHTING DRESS.

There is no extravagance more universal than the use of perfumes at the present time, and it is constantly increasing, until it has almost become a passion. Cologne water which was formerly thought good enough for common use, is now left altogether to maid-servants, and shop-girls, all other classes from the mechanic's wife up, disdaining anything short of Lubin's extracts. Magnolia is one of the fancies for this season, and shares the throne with Flaireal and the Yacht Club Bouquet. Bridal perfumes consist of Orange blossoms, Lily, and Spring Violet, put up in cut glass bottles and arranged in an elegant casket, they form a charming, and acceptable bridal present.

The disastrous effects of the cold, stormy winds also causes large inquiry for those emollients whose softening influence is so much needed to balance the exposure which fashionable head-gear obliges the complexion to undergo from sun and wind. Thousands resort to the lapid wash, and it was recommended by the celebrated Countess of Landsfelt, (Lola Montez,) and it is fortunate that they obtain nothing more harmful. Others resort to powders, that of the pink kind not being considered most efficacious and least injurious. A receipt for a wash which is called the "Bath of Beauty" is said to be excellent. It consists of two ounces of barley, two of bran, one of ground rice, two of [illegible] and three of [illegible], together with half a dozen ivy leaves, boiled altogether in a gallon of rain water for one hour, and then strained when cold; any perfume may be added that is agreeable. This, it is said, will remove freckles, and make the skin clear, bright, and soft.

Yachting promises to be a very fashionable amusement this summer, and ladies are preparing special toilettes for this purpose. [illegible] apple cloth is the favorite material for dresses because it is impervious to atmospheric influence. The outer garment is the gaily striped Arab cloak in silk and linen, and the hat of brown, or steel colored straw, turned up at the sides, and ornamented with pendant buttons and long white plume. Carriage boots are of black satin, twined up with Marie Louise blue silk, ornamented richly with felt, and having high heels. Breakfast slippers are of dark bronze, or black kid, and are no longer embroidered in colors, but with jet in heavy clusters, worked upon ribbon. Slippers for full dress are of white, pale green, or peach blossom satin, ornamented with flowers, white or lilac, set in beds of narrow blonde. Haute Louis XV style.

DESTRUCTION OF LIQUOR.—Between sixty and seventy women, [illegible] the town of Towanda, deprived a liquor seller of his occupation on Thursday afternoon. The village of Towanda never saw such a sight as was presented on Thursday, for the women who broke into the saloon spilled about two hundred gallons of poor whisky and brandy, and enjoyed the sport amazingly. The saloon was evidently an eyesore to a majority of the people of Towanda, but as we are opposed to mob under any and all circumstances, we cannot endorse the course which the women pursued. We are told that they staved in the heads of all the barrels and kegs in the saloon, but were very careful not to break any of the glasses and decanters. They turned the decanters upside down, and let the liquor out; after which they [illegible] on the bar in regular order.—[illegible] Telegraph.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE Young Men's Association.
THE UNDERSIGNED HAVING BEEN AT the late annual election selected as officers of the Young Men's Association for the current year, would beg leave to call the attention of all those interested in its success to the fact, that upon an examination of the affairs of the Association, they have found a very large number of the bills for semi-annual dues yet remain unpaid. A large proportion of these bills are against those who are sincere friends of the Association and have been for many years, but who, from not realizing the importance of their individual aid, have ceased to render it their active personal support. We would remind all such, that the Association now needs as much as at any previous time their sympathy and aid, and cannot flourish without it. The present Executive Committee are endeavoring to accommodate the members by a more convenient arrangement of the rooms of the Association, and their earnest and persevering efforts will be expended in order to make the institution all that its patrons can reasonably ask. To secure such a result, we need and would respectfully and earnestly solicit the active personal co-operation of every friend of the Association, in increasing the number of its paying members, and particularly in each himself becoming a member.

Notice.
THE PAST EIGHTEEN MONTHS' EXPERIENCE has given the citizens of Chicago ample proof that the soap process of cleansing gentlemen's clothes will not do, as practiced by those inexperienced in the business. The fact of the matter is this, that, unless your coats, vests, and pants, are dyed, cleaned and neatly repaired, by men skilled in their vocation, they had far better never be touched at all; but when they are operated upon by experienced workmen, it is certainly a great saving to the community at large, at the same time conducing much to their bodily comfort. Now, gentlemen, all of you who know anything, know enough by this time to be fully convinced that the only true and reliable source of having your coats, vests and pants cleaned, neatly repaired, and made to look like new, is by COOK & McLAIN'S chemical process. It removes every spot of grease, paint, wax, and tar, together with all other blemishes and impurities to which such garments are liable. The spots are guaranteed not to re-appear, as a beautiful finished lustre is put on as when first new. Gentlemen, call at COOK & McLAIN'S and get a specimen of their Coat Dressing. If they fail to please you, no charge will be made. Remember, COOK & McLAIN, 90 Dearborn street, south of the Post-office.

He has taken rooms at 73 South Clark street, where he will remain in order to afford to those afflicted with diseases of the Eye and Ear, an opportunity of being treated by a system which is entirely new, perfectly safe, and has never been known to fail in effecting permanent cures, especially in all cases of Ophthalmia [illegible] of the eyelids, whether acute or chronic, whether catarrhal, purulent, scrofulous, or rheumatic. COMMERCIAL.

CHICAGO WHOLESALE MARKET.

Office of the Chicago Daily Tribune,
Friday Evening, June 4, 1858.

In money matters there has been little if any change; there seems to be a sufficient supply on hand to transact all necessary business. Exchange is unaltered, and plenty at 1 per cent.

A brisk business in wheat has been done to-day; early in the morning a good inquiry prevailed at 63½c in store, and on 'Change the market quickly stiffened to 64c in store, and transactions were brisk. In the evening a disposition was manifested to pay [illegible] on board, though we would not advise country operators to base their operations upon this figure.

Corn was moderately active at fair figures.

But little was done in oats, and we very much doubt if the outside figure of yesterday could be obtained again.

Rye and barley are quiet at unaltered figures; a steady demand exists however, and sales are made at current rates without trouble.

A better feeling seems to exist in flour, and higher figures are asked for leading brands.

Lake freights are easy, and but few vessels sought for or offering. The following charters were made to-day: J. S. Reed, 7c corn to Oswego; White Cloud, corn to same place at 6½c.

The receipts by Canal, Railroad and Lake for the day are, flour, 186 bbls; wheat, 23,569 bus; corn; 45,087 bus; oats, 4,359 bus; barley, 159 bus; potatoes, 617 bus; hides, 4,720 lbs; provisions, 16,900 lbs; cattle, 46; hogs, 550; highwines, 100 bbls; lumber, 2,045,000 feet; shingles, 788,000 feet; lath 172,000; wood, 240 cords; coal, 364 tons; salt, 3,080 bbls.

The shipments are wheat, 47,003 bus; corn, 24,000 bus; oats 32,000 bus; flour, 501 bbls.

Prepared by Dr. Sanford.

IS A GREAT SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL discovery, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Head-ache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

SANFORD'S LIVER INVIGORATOR.

All who use it are giving their unanimous testimony in its favor.

We take infinite pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for FEVER AND AGUE, CHILL FEVER, and all FEVERS of a Bilious type. It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

Among the hundreds of LIVER REMEDIES now offered to the public, there are none we can so fully recommend as Dr. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR, so generally known now throughout the Union. This preparation is truly a LIVER INVIGORATOR, producing the most happy results on all who use it. Almost innumerable certificates have been given of the great virtue of this medicine by those of the highest standing in society, and we know it to be the best preparation now before the public.—[Hudson County Democrat.
